The Mysterious Cat

By Lyn

There was a white cat standing by my door, there was a star in its chest and it looked like a chinchilla that rolled into a cat. It has been standing there for an hour now, and it is bugging me because whenever I look out the window, the cat is giving me those puppy dog eyes. It finally left and I was relieved from those teary eyes. But when I heard a "meow", I turned around and saw the same exact cat.

Those eyes were convincing me again but I can't have a cat, I'm not allergic to them or anything but just it's my parents who are allergic to them. Then the cat suddenly disappeared in thin air, I was wondering did the cat just go to a different dimension? I wanted to Know very bad, for the first time in my life, I wanted the cat to come back the next day so I could follow it. Weirdly, my wish came true the next day.

I think the cat brought something in its mouth, it looked like a letter wrapped in glitter ribbon. The ribbon looked like it could give someone a sparkly hand like a bottle of extra fine glitter. It took the glitter out of the cat's mouth, and opened it. It said this "Dear Isabella, you have been chosen to be a cat keeper, but not just any cat keeper, you are a keeper who takes care of the rarest cat's in the world. Please accept this invitation. Sincerely, Annabell. I could not believe it! I have been accepted to this cool cat keeper job!

I don't know if my parents are going to agree, but I think they won't let me. I needed to keep this a secret from my parents, or I could be busted! I needed to hatch up a plan, something that could keep my parents distracted when I go away. I rolled from side to side on my bed, I was like a cat who drank too much coffee! But still, after sleepless nights, I have no plan. I need one though! Being a cat Keeper of rare cats is a big deal for me.

The next day, my next-door locker neighbor, hid in her locker the whole day. I was thinking like Girl,, how can you stay like that the whole day? That is impossible. But that actually gave me an idea! In my first class, homeroom, I was doodling in my notebook writing down my plan to escape without my parents knowing. Finally, I was finished! Yes! That felt like years without a Starbucks Unicorn Frappuccino. But it is over, and I start that plan today!

I made a fake person that looks like me so my parents could get tricked. I also put a microphone in the body so when my parents ask me something or tell me something. The device is connected with another device that beeps when my parents ask me something and I can reply to them. I got everything done, just one more thing. . I have to go to Starbucks to get a Unicorn Frappuccino!

I wrote back to the guardian of rare cat's and said that I could be one of the Keepers. She then wrote back in a very short letter saying that she was really happy that I accepted her invitation. Then she said that my job starts today at exactly 5 pm. My heart was thumping so hard like I was starting to have a heart attack! I jumped around my bedroom, over and over and over quietly because I did not want my parents to know what was happening up there.

I packed my bag, full of cat toys, treats, and my special device that beeps when my parents ask me something or tell me something. I was ready, to be another guardian of the rare and mystical cats! Then I hopped on immediately and the ride was even better than a roller coaster ride I rode before! It was even more intense and it was SO much more glittery. Finally, I arrived. There were the rare cats and the guardian. She was dressed like an angel with gold linings over her dress and a pair of cat ears over her head. Then Annabell said "Welcome to the safe place for the rare and mystical cats." "Here you will take care of all the cats with all of your love."

I didn't even get a chance to speak because after she said that sentence, she handed me the uniform and told me to get dressed in the dressing room. I finally got dressed and told her that. Then she went down on her knee, When she did that, I felt like she was proposing to me! She said there was one last step, she asked me that if you are a true rare cat guardian, you have to wear a pair of cat ears to show that you are special.

And of course, I said "Of course! I will! "she handed me the cat ear and I wore it tall and proud on top of my head. Then she said I was a true cat keeper now so I will get to take care of the rare cats now.

The cats seem to really like me, and I seem to really like them. But sadly, this was all a dream.

To be continued. P.s. there is no second part of this book!